25th March 2024

- (13) My parents were due to arrive on the 27th. Despite the situation, I naively hoped that the respondent's behaviour might change with them in the house. However, the day before their arrival, the respondent threatened me again, this time regarding the property and the mortgage. He claimed he had contacted the bank and was assured he could withdraw from the mortgage agreement, leaving me solely responsible for the entire mortgage and was about to "really fuck me over". I was devastated that someone who had once been my best friend could contemplate hurting and destroying me in such a way. The respondent was so overwhelmed with anger that I couldn't understand what had happened to cause such an outburst, and when I asked him he answered: "Then you're fucking stupid" and "you're so fucking blind" (see Exhibit n° ISS-13).
- (a) I had a work contract that lasted about eight weeks and it was so demanding that I worked through the nights and barely took lunch breaks. I had asked the respondent to help get the house ready for my parents and put his clothes on the clothes racks I had purchased, but, instead of helping, he left the house, came back late at night, and went straight to sleep; leaving me to do the job despite needing to work through the night.
- (b) The respondent made it extremely challenging, on purpose, for me to focus on my job; I was constantly disrupted by his shouting, and I had to ask him to "wait until I passed my work deadline to shout at me".

- (14) It was the first time my parents were visiting to come and see our new home; they had rushed the sale of their own property and contributed £150,000 towards the deposit, with the genuine intention of financially helping the respondent. We had only been living in the property for less than two months, and it would have broken their hearts to know about the situation.
- (a) The respondent kept on accusing me of being the cause for us not being able to communicate, completely dismissing it came from his shouting. He then accused me of not putting any work into the relationship, despite him stopping anger management therapy after one session because: "it didn't work" as well as couple therapy, while I had done about 10 years of therapy, and continuously did self work. As a result his anger outbursts increasingly worsened by the day. The respondent accused me of "being the attacker" despite the fact that in the house: "I was hiding away because he was constantly attacking me".
- (b) The respondent threatened me to ruin my family Easter and vanish if I didn't take responsibility for myself and apologise for not attending the pub - see 5.4.12 (c) - the day after his physical violence.

27th March 2024

- (15) It was the first time my parents were visiting to come and see our new home; they had rushed the sale of their own property and contributed £150,000 towards the deposit, with the genuine intention of financially helping the respondent. We had only been living in the property for less than two months, and it would have broken their hearts to know about the situation (see Exhibit n° ISS-14/A).
- (a) Despite their generosity, and despite the respondent punishing me for small things like arriving 20 minutes late to his mother's house, on the day my parents arrived, the respondent texted me to say he was "never coming back", that he was "not going to bend over for us", and that I "had to learn a lesson", before disappearing (see Exhibit n° ISS-14/B).
- (b) My parents' stay went horribly wrong. Realising that the respondent refused to change his behaviour or even try to hide the situation from, and for them, and enduring his continuous threats and abuse despite their presence, my patience eventually ran out; I could no longer remain calm and silent. In the presence of my parents, I began shouting; expressing that I could no longer tolerate his abuse; I was overwhelmed with agitation, anger, and disappointment.
- (c) I had learned to manage my reactions after enduring almost six months of constant abuse; however, at that point, I finally exploded. The respondent was quiet and I was, for once, the one shouting. My parents couldn't understand what was happening; I was the one out of control from their perspective, not him. To this day, my mother still struggles with guilt for not understanding my situation and not taking my side that day.
- (16) The respondent then repeatedly put me in danger while I was driving by shouting and yelling, using verbal abuse, and engaging in physical intimidation, such as pretending to hit me or throwing objects at and around me. His erratic and dangerous behaviour almost caused me to lose control of the vehicle.
- (17) The respondent's public shaming, degrading, and humiliating behaviour became extreme, leaving me feeling profoundly embarrassed and degraded (see Exhibit n° ISS-15).
- (18) Our new home was filled with terror. The respondent would both pretend to throw objects at me and actually throw them at me, breaking my belongings, and damaging my property. He physically intimidated me by blocking doors, clenching his fists, banging and hitting my property around the house etc... His behaviour involved both physical violence and threats of physical violence (see Exhibit n° ISS-16).
- (19) The respondent would create and enforce rules, using punishments to compel my obedience. He forced me to admit guilt and to repeat the apologies he dictated. I was required to say I was responsible for everything or to confess that I did "fuck all". Sometimes, he would even take food away from me, when "I didn't deserve it" (see Exhibit n° ISS-17).
- (20) The respondent would hide my personal belongings to force me into compliance. As soon as he finished work, he would slam my laptop screen shut and throw my phone against the wall to demand my full attention. I was constantly having to hide my house keys, car keys, laptop, and phone.

- (21) He would also punish my parents by cancelling family events at the last minute or creating arguments (though never in front of them), which ruined our time together and left them worrying about my living situation and unhappiness.

10th April 2024

- (22) After my parents left, the evening before the incident, I noticed a broken mug on the kitchen floor and that the cats had played with the toilet rolls. I remember it vividly because, despite knowing the stress I was under with work and how obsessively hard I was working, the respondent made no effort to help with household tasks. He had left the broken mug on the floor and refused to clean up or pick up the toilet roll. It would have taken him only two minutes, but instead, he would be either in bed or on the couch, watching Netflix and smoking weed.

- (a) When the respondent came home from work, I started recording on my phone as soon as I heard him coming through the front door. He walked in shouting that I was: "doing fuck all", that the mess on the floor was my fault, and denying that he had broken the mug or that it had even been there the day before. He accused me of being selfish and claimed that I only did things that were fun or beneficial to myself.
- (b) The respondent expected me to adhere to traditional gender roles within the house. He also claimed that he was financially supporting me by paying my mortgage and rent, which was entirely false; my family was helping with those expenses, and I had my sources of income from freelance work. Whenever I wasn't working, he labelled me as a burden, contrarily, when I was working, he became even angrier because I was spending less time cleaning and tidying up after him.
- (c) The respondent then threatened to open the door and let the cats loose if I didn't clean up after the cats and "after his shit", and he even kicked one of them. Trying to escape the shouting and continue working, I headed upstairs to my office, where I sat against the door to block him, as there was no lock. He followed me, kicked the door, causing damage, and tried to force his way into my space while shouting and threatening me. I was terrified and feared for my life.
- (d) I asked both my friends, Manuele and Claudia if I could move in with them and bring the cats, but unfortunately, neither could accommodate me at the time. On the same day, I also reached out to the respondent's best friend, Robbie Myerson, and his wife, Ziba, to discuss the severity of the situation. This was the only alternative to reporting him to the police that I could think of. The constant fear of the respondent's behaviour caused me to postpone the call several times, which eventually took place on April 12th (see Exhibit n° ISS-18).

I can't win can i. You asked me to not be angry, i told you im not then you tell me to stop complaining. I mean i don't know why i ever thought we would learn to work together. We are so incapable of working as a team and I knew it but believed we could be better. 19:12

Where are you?
I just came downstairs 19:15

Unanswered voice call - 19:16

Call again

I've gone out for a while.

I'm at breaking point and I think I might do something stupid 19:21

Like what? 19:22

I don't know but I don't want to feel this stress and anxiety any longer. I'm completely over it Right now I can't imagine a situation that feels more like hell than this one.

You
I came downstairs after your request and you just fucked off
Yep.
Because I don't care about the fucking clothes rack.
When will you get it in to your head. I do not care any more.

You
Ok conveniently
You're a fucking wooden block when understanding the state we are in. It's fucked. It's hell. I want to be no where near that house.
You've always got the answer. And you have no idea how wrong you are. I'm out of this the moment I can work out how.
I told you things have got to change. They haven't. I'm so weak that I don't want anything except out. 19:34

In so wrong about what? I haven't said a thing 19:48

"ok convenient".
You think I left to avoid doing hanging rails and stuff and have no consideration for the actual reason.
That's what you are so wrong about. You are so far from understanding the situation.

I know I said earlier that we had until Thursday to work this out but if we have just discovered your parents are coming on Wednesday then I think we are out of time. 19:54

You think I'm doing nothing and stuff and have no consideration for the other person.
That's what you are so wrong about. You are so far from understanding the situation.

I know I said earlier that we had until Thursday to work this out but if we have just discovered your parents are coming on Wednesday then I think we are out of time. 19:54

I've done one room you can do the other one

As obviously you disappear when we had stuff to do for a change 20:16

what are you not getting?
I don't care.

You
As obviously you disappear when we had stuff to do for a change

There's nothing you can say that will get to me Irene. It's too far gone now

You aren't going to get me to suddenly do things because you attack me anymore. I'm over it all.

It's like a weight being lifted 20:20

Me attacking you? You just complained that I don't care and that I don't talk

That's funny

I mean you're constantly attacking me I'm hiding away

Now I'm the attacker 20:21

You don't care 20:22

Jesus 20:21

You care about a clothes rack

You
As obviously you disappear when we had stuff to do for a change

We've had stuff to do all month but it's only when you want to do it you actually do it. 20:23

26 Mar 2024

I'm sorry I need to work tonight I'm just so shit it's taking me too long but have to send it by 9am. Should we spend some time together tomorrow? 0:49

I can work on the laptop downstairs if you're awake for a bit longer? 1:24

? 1:38

I don't know what's going on with you I came downstairs yesterday to do things together you weren't there I came to get you in the night.

I only asked you to wait to shout at me till I met my deadline

You don't understand I'm not doing well at work and you're making my life hell

You're not happy I'm working now

If you did you'd leave me working in peace mainly when you see me crying and not sleeping 11:24

You have no idea what I was trying to ask you because you insist on interrupting every single thing I say 11:26

If I say a word when you're on calls you destroy me I can't even say wait until I've sent my files? 11:25

You have not once considered anything I have said not our relationship nothing.

And now I want to get out of this house and never ever return.

If you can't work with me. Don't message me. I'm speaking to the bank to see if I can get my half bought back by them.

I've tried every way I can think of but nothing changes and it's too much for me to cope with so I'm planning my exit. You can stop that but not the way you are going about it now.

I'm hating this situation so much I'm going mad and if you won't work to fix that then I'm working to get out.
Your parents come tomorrow. I tried to talk to you for 1 minute but no, interrupted again. There is no hope.

You never ask any question you think you know everything you constantly interrupt me you never listen to how I feel you do nothing to improve this teamwork issue and I've lost it and I can't do it any more.

I will not be here for your parents or Easter if you don't deal with this right now. Don't get pissed when I leave.

I honestly have no interest in being with you in that house any longer

I hate it so so much

And that's not even bringing up this weekend we just had. I'm finished.

You
I don't know what's going on with you I came downstairs yesterday to do things together you weren't there I came to get you in the night.

Then you're fucking stupid. I left the house because I hate it there. I hate our relationship hate everything that has happened.

I left because I can't be in that place any longer. Are you so fucking blind to that that you really don't know why I left?

I can't talk to you I can't discuss anything with you I can't suggest anything. This is the worst advert for a relationship ever.

I'm broken and I want out. That's all I want. Out. 11:35

I find it so telling that you thought I left out of "convenience". You really have no idea at all about how bad this is 11:39

Screenshot of Signal conversation, dated [27/03/2024] Both my parents are teetotal, as is my sister. I asked the respondent to help reassure them that while I do enjoy the occasional drink, my alcohol consumption is very limited. Unsurprisingly, on that same day, the respondent threatened to make false accusations about my drinking and drug habits to my parents. The respondent, despite never having cleaned the house, and in this case the cat litter, had the audacity to complain about how I had cleaned the latter, having dropped a bit of clean sand on the sides he complained that I had made a complete mess and to: “do a job properly”.

I inform the respondent: "I've just plunged the kitchen sink, cleaned the dishwasher filter, and put it on self-clean. Hopefully, it will work better going forward. It would be nice if for one day you wouldn't point out something I haven't done but something I have done", while also expressing that he was making my life hell daily for no reason. I reminded him of our agreement to pay the mortgage equally, but as he was earning significantly more while I was still unemployed, we had agreed that he would take on a couple more bills. However, the respondent replied: "Forget anything I said until now, please pay your half and we can be civil," or "I will help with bills the day you have a job" - which completely defeated the purpose. I had also pointed out that each time he's high, he tells me he doesn't mind if I take a minimum-wage job as long as I am passionate about it. I reiterated that I was trying to find such a job, but every time I brought it up, he would refuse to allow me to pursue it, citing household financial concerns - despite me paying for everything without having a job.

Whatever was said the situation is as it is.
You must pay the mortgage. Full stop.
You must pay for your bills. Full stop.
You must put your half in the joint account.
Any thing above or beyond that is not the normal.
You still haven't put things in the spreadsheet how many times of asking.
If you start taking this seriously don't expect things to go well.

Exhibit n° ISS-18/A • IMPOSING RULES - THREATS TO MY CATS.mp3 voice recording, dated [10/04/2024], referred to in the Section 5.4.22

Audio recording dated [10/04/2024], where the respondent is shouting at me, for 16 minutes on end, repeatedly saying that "I do fuck all aside my own interests" – despite seeing me still working at 20:00 and doing free overtime – and begins threatening me to leave the back door open so my cats would escape and end up onto the North Circular.

play audio file

link to file

The respondent walks in the house: "What the hell is going on here? I hope you're ok though, don't worry about doing anything. Bathroom lights on. Food packet just here on the floor, is that right? You do fuck all, except your own interests. Fuck off Guinness, get out of my way" – and kicked the cat

The respondent: "You do fuck all to help us. You just want to live in hell. Me paying your mortgage and your bills for you". – this isn't true, I have always paid my part equally, unlike the respondent who still owes me £5,200 over household expenses I covered while "he had no money".

The respondent: "You will not lift a finger unless it's for you. What are they doing on the side here? They're going to sit here for another six weeks are they? And it's all over the fucking room. Put five seconds of effort into something that isn't your interest for once. Fuck all, you do. Absolutely. You have one interest and that's yourself. I wish I. I wish I've not been to fucking deluded. These coffee beans. Why are they just sitting on the side here? Not even as sorry. I was really busy. Nothing. You're so unreal. Are you so incapable of working with anyone else in any fashion?" – Then starts hitting and banging loudly on my personal belongings.

The respondent: "Why do I fucking bother?" – I walk away having said nothing the whole time.

The respondent: "Okay, yeah go to bed rather than dealing with this situation, I guess. You don't worry about that I'll cover it all, you do fuck all" – From the first floor, with my office door shut, you can still hear him shouting for over 2 minutes. Then he walks up the stairs, still shouting, pushing in my office door and damaging it.

The respondent: "Okay, what's all these from?"

Me: "I don't know what you're talking about"

The respondent: "You put them there, please. What are they from?"

Me: "Calm down. Just leave me alone. Please. Didn't I spend six hours cleaning on Saturday?" – 4 days earlier;

The respondent: "For your friend yes"

Me: "So what it's for the house, doesn't matter if my friend came over"

The respondent: "What you did on Saturday is irrelevant, your cats have just left shit all over the floor. You've done nothing about it, everything that you need to do for the house. You never ever do fuck all around here. You only think about you, nothing else. Clean up off yourself, do something and we might be able to be civil but until you start putting a fucking finger out, there's no civility. I've just walked in from bringing food home, fucking bomb site. Do you ever think of anyone except yourself? No is the answer, fuck off. Till you can fucking work with me, do not expect civility. Grow the fuck up and learn when you're responsible for your actions and say: yes that was me. Sorry, let me deal with that. But no. Irene until you're not willing to work with me if your cats shit, piss or tear a single thing up, I'm leaving the back door open. Okay? And don't say I didn't warn you".

Exhibit n° ISS-18/B • SEEKING SAFETY FOR MY CATS

*signal conversation, dated [10/04/2024], referred to in the Section 5.4.22.D

Conversation with my friends Claudia and Manuele, where I confide that the respondent is so far from the person I used to know, that he had gone so far that he will never go back to who he was, that he is lying about everything, constantly insulting me, and that his behaviour is severely impacting my sleep and mental health. Most notably, I share that the respondent has begun threatening me with my cats and is now using them to control me. I asked them if my two cats and I could stay with either of them for a few days, seeking safety.

Lol I've just come down to listening to it what were you going to say?
Hon have you got dates of Justin when he's away?
I had to contact Alex's best mate
The situation here is gone mental it's daily insults and I'm fucking scared for my life
He literally walked in and lost it
He's now using the cats to control me
He says if I don't clean after him (obviously he says it's my mess but it's his) he'll let the cats escape
I told Robbie it's gone mental I'm not safe here trying to arrange a face to face cos the issue is too serious for a phone call
He came home I was working and said that all I care is what benefits me
I mean I'm WORKING
And he's shouting that he's paying my mortgage and my bills it's not true
EVERYTHING THAT COMES OUT OF HIS MOUTH when he's like this is a lie all lies but he believes it
I'm barely sleeping because of all this... I'm working so hard because at least it numbs me from what's going on
I mean not even my first boyfriend treated me like this and he was beating me up
I told Robbie I'm sorry I have to involve you but otherwise my only step forward is to call the cops
He terrified me
I'm hiding in my home 21:48
I think he's addicted to weed (partly) and partly it's just him
What do I do now Claudia? 21:53

Fuck hon!! I honestly think you should call the police and say you are afraid of him... which you are
He's gone out of control
Sorry I only just saw your messages now
Justin leaves on Monday but is back on Thursday
You
I think he's addicted to weed (partly) and partly it's just him
I think it's him ... the weed doesn't help but it's all him
You
I told Robbie it's gone mental I'm not safe here trying to arrange a face to face cos the issue is too serious for a phone call

Should be ok with Manu he's just asleep 23:02

Can't stop crying
Smoking weed in front of the TV 23:05

Aww hon!! I fucking hate that he is doing that to you
Why is he so hateful 23:08

I don't know this person he's turned into evil he's not the same person anymore
He's gone so far I don't think he'll ever come back to being who he was 23:06

I know you just brought the house but you need to get away from him as soon as possible 23:09

If I just need to rush out tomorrow it's ok if I come to yours
I don't think it will happen I'm just lacking sleep right now

I also reached out to the respondent's best friend, Robbie Myerson, and his wife, Ziba, to discuss the severity of the situation. This was the only alternative to reporting him to the police that I could think of. The constant fear of the respondent's behaviour caused me to postpone the call several times, which eventually took place on April 12th.
